NO DOUBT DEFENSE WILL BE INSANITY

THAW'S COUNSEL LETS OUT FACTS

Asks Talesmen If They Would Consider That Plea

Two Jurors Are Dismissed and No Reason for Such Action Is Vouchsafed.

JACK BARRYMORE IS PRESENT.

New York, Jan. 30.—All doubt that insanity will be the principal defense of Harry Thaw was removed when Lawyer Delmas for the first time asked talesmen "Have you any prejudice against the defense of insanity?" Talesmen were asked if they knew what insanity was.

Two Jurors Excused.

The first big surprise of the trial of Harry K. Thaw came today, when Justice Fitzgerald, on the motion of District Attorney Jerome and with the consent of the attorneys for the man accused for the murder of Stanford White, announced that two of the jurors selected in the early days of the proceedings would be excused from further service.

"Without any reflection on the jurymen whatsoever," said the presiding judge, "Jurors Nos. 4 and 6 will be excused."

The men in question were Arthur S. Campbell, a superintendent of telephone construction, and Harold R. Faure, a printer and publisher of a pamphlet circular in Wall street.

When the excused jurors left the court room they were besieged by questioners. Mr. Faure created a mild sensation in the corridors when he asserted with positiveness that he was utterly in ignorance of any reason why he should be asked to step down.

Mr. Campbell, the second of the excused jurors, declared he "had too much respect for the court to give an interview."

Justice Fitzgerald announced today he would permit no more sketching of the principals. Harry C. Bready, advertising agent, was selected as the tenth juror. He takes the place of Harold Faure, excused yesterday.

Justice Fitzgerald has ordered a new panel of 100 men to report tomorrow. Two jurors remained to be chosen when court recessed at 1 o'clock.

Jack Barrymore Witness.

An interested spectator of the afternoon proceedings was "Jack" Barrymore, the actor. He came to the court room with Detective Flood, of the district attorney's office and it can be stated that under certain circumstances he will be a witness for the prosecution. Barrymore was very well acquainted with Evelyn Nesbit at the time Stanford White made her acquaintance and is familiar with the circumstances under which the architect came to know the chorus girl. Should any attempt be made on the part of the defense to introduce testimony regarding White's acquaintance with Evelyn Nesbit that would tend to blacken the late architect's memory it is believed that the actor will be put on the stand as a witness in rebuttal.

Mr. Barrymore and the detective sat well back in the court room beside the aisle that led to the main entrance. After court had adjourned the pair kept their seats until the court room was pretty nearly empty.

Theo Peters Liquor Selling Case Continued in Police Court Today

After hearing one witness in the case against Theodore Peters, charged with selling liquor without a license, Special Police Judge J. S. Ross continued the case until more witnesses could be secured. J. N. Ferguson, of 1330 South Sixth street, swore that he went to the Peters saloon last Sunday and bought a half a pint of whisky paying 50 cents. After his evidence was heard the case was continued. Ferguson stated that he was sent to the saloon by the Rev. Calvin Thompson, pastor of the First Baptist church, who has been an active fighter for the cause of temperance. The temperance workers and a casual observer would have been justified in inferring that it was desired that the Thaw party and the counsel for the defense should know that the actor was present.

To Evelyn Nesbit Thaw Jack Barrymore was an apparition and a menace—a warning and a threat.

In the days of her prosperity the Great White Way knew Jack and Evelyn as sweethearts. She had not Thaw then. Barrymore and White were friends, and the three met frequently at the mad, glad revels of the roysterers.

Barrymore passed out of her life as Harry Kendall Thaw entered it and she knew him no more until today. What he knew is a secret which they share now with one another—District Attorney Jerome, locked in whose safe is a sworn statement which Barrymore has entrusted to Jerome's keeping—to be used if necessary.

Secret Gnaws at Heart.

And that is the tragedy of it. For the mission of Barrymore is one of waiting. His advent today was to warn Evelyn Nesbit that he is at hand and she must sit in the court room knowing his presence, with their secret, whatever it may be, gnawing at her heart.

She alone knows what he can tell—she alone knows what of truth there may be in the story which she will tell—he and the district attorney. Will he take the stand? He will wait for Evelyn Nesbit Thaw to testify. Then will he take the stand? Still he will wait and note what testimony Evelyn Nesbit Thaw gives.

Jack Barrymore's part in the tragedy waits on Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, upon whose lips may hang the fate of her husband. And he sits and waits in the trial chamber, while Jerome holds the written statement in his possession and Evelyn Thaw waits on the brink of the chasm with grief and despair in her heart.

ANOTHER MURDER BY TERRORISTS

St. Petersburg, Jan. 30.—Governor Guidema of the political prison at Basil Island, was assassinated on the main street of the island today. The prison warden, who attempted to arrest the assassin, was fatally shot. The terrorist escaped. An 18-year-old boy dressed as a workman, was the perpetrator.

INDIANS MAY SELL

Restrictions on Apportionment of Land Removed.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—One of the most important provisions added to the Indian appropriation bill by the senate committee on Indian affairs, reported today, says that after July 1, 1907, all restrictions upon leasing Indian lands shall be removed. This is proposed to take the place of the existing law which prohibits Indians from selling or mortgaging any lands allotted to them for a period of 25 years.

Sweetenham Is Sorry.

London, Jan. 30.—The Kingston incident has been finally closed by Governor Sweetenham formally withdrawing his letter to Rear Admiral Davis and expressing his regret for having written it.

Crowds Witness Departure.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 30.—George von L. Meyer, retiring ambassador of the United States, left here today for Berlin. A large crowd gathered at the railroad station to bid him farewell.

BATTLE WITH ICE IN MISSISSIPPI

Party of Six Thrown From Wrecked Skiff

Given Up for Lost But Held to Floating Cakes and Finally Reach Shore.

WOMAN WITH BABY IN PARTY

After battling for hours amid whirling, grinding, cakes of ice, with nothing but drift ice to support them, Jim Sogy, Mrs. Ida Landoe and child, with two male and one female companion, were saved from a watery grave in the Mississippi river, Monday night. When they had been absent for hours the report of drowning was spread and all hope for their safety was given up. On their reporting at Kicksite last night a narrative of one of the most exciting of flood experiences in history was eagerly furnished anxious listeners. The party's escape was miraculous, almost incredible.

Sogy and party started in a skiff from Fort Jefferson Mo., a few miles below Wickliffe. The current in the Mississippi was strong, and Sogy, who was pulling, had a hard time in keeping his little craft righted. The fright of the two women caused them unusual nervousness, and failing to keep the boat properly trimmed many a narrow escape from the crushing ice was made.

When the little craft passed the middle of the river a large floe of ice was encountered. Sogy tried to pull around it. It came crushing and churning down upon him before he could escape. Closing in on his boat the sides began to crush in, and the party was precipitated into the icy waters.

Clinging desperately to a floating piece of timber Mrs. Landoe held her baby above the water with her disengaged arm until Sogy swam to her to take the child. Ice and floating driftwood offered support, and by hard work the party gradually worked nearer the Kentucky shore, but all the time being whirled miles down the river with the swift current.

They landed several miles below Fort Jefferson and wandered into the woods, weak and cold. After an hour's search they found a farm house where shelter for the night was secured. The next morning, after thoroughly drying their clothes, they started for Wickliffe, arriving last night.

Several persons saw the unfortunate party start and saw the boat disappear. It was presumed the entire party was lost and reports to this effect spread rapidly and caused a general alarm.

HEALTH BOARDS CLASH ON POINTS

In regard to the action of the city board of health in directing County Health Officer Dr. P. H. Stewart, to have a certain dairy yard cleaned up, President Rivers, of the county board, does not believe that it comes under his jurisdiction. The county health officer can order any barnyard which is in such a condition, as a barnyard, that it is unsanitary, cleaned up; but he has no authority to regulate the milk supply conditions. A barnyard might be up to the county board of health's regulations as a barnyard, and yet be in a condition that would be unsanitary for a dairy. He thinks that the place mentioned probably is no worse than a hundred barnyards in the county and that the city milk inspector and health officer should look after the conditions as a dairy.

DRUGGIST ASSIGNS.

R. O. Broadway Asks for Receiver for His Stock.

R. O. Broadway, druggist at Eleventh and Jackson streets, filed a deed of assignment to Cecil Read this morning. The deed states that he is unable to meet his debts and desires the stock to be sold as early as possible that his creditors be settled with on the best basis possible. No schedule of assets and liabilities was filed.

Immigration Station at New Orleans.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The senate today passed a bill to establish an immigration station in New Orleans.

SENATOR ROBERT MARION LA FOLLETTE OF WISCONSIN, WHO IS FIGHTING TO SAVE THE GOVERNMENT COAL AND MINERAL LANDS.

Senator La Follette has introduced a bill providing that the rich coal and mineral lands of the government shall never be disposed of, but developed and operated under lease from the government. The bill is said to have won the approval of President Roosevelt.

Municipal Abattoir is Expected to Result From the Present Situation

Neither the City nor County Board of Health Will Longer Suffer Presence of Slaughterhouses Under Conditions

BUTCHERS IN A PREDICAMENT.

With the attitude of the county board of health that slaughter houses shall not be allowed in the county outside Paducah and the ultimatum of the city board of health that slaughter houses must get outside the city limits, the butchers of Paducah and McCracken are "twixt the devil and the deep blue sea."

President H. T. Rivers of the county board of health said that slaughter houses would be as objectionable to the residents of the county as to the residents of the city so long as the slaughter houses are operated as they are in Paducah. In cold weather the slaughter houses are not so inimical to health, but in the summer the flies are attracted in thousands and the absence of sanitary sewers from most if not all of the slaughter houses, make them dangerously unsanitary.

The up-shot of the situation caused by the determined attitude of both boards probably will be a central and municipally controlled abattoir where all cattle slaughtered in the city and county will be brought for that purpose. In that event adequate inspection can be made under present conditions. It is practically impossible for one inspector to inspect all the meat after it is slaughtered, and as for inspecting it before it is slaughtered, it is out of the question.

COMES ON SPECIAL.

Charles B. Hanford Missed Connections at Fulton This Morning.

After his long trip from Greenville, Miss., Charles B. Hanford with his company and baggage, missed connections at Fulton this morning, and was compelled to secure a special train to reach Paducah to fill his engagement tonight. Mr. Hanford lectured at the High school today.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 30.—Saloon which sprang up about Port Sheridan when the army canteen was abolished are attacked by a bill introduced in the house. It places a prohibition zone of four miles wide about every army post in the state and every home for disabled volunteer veterans.

Kansas City, Jan. 30.—Hackenschmidt's manager has accepted the offer of a match with Frank Gotch in Kansas City in May next for a purse of $10,000 and for the world's championship, winner to take 75 per cent.

SALOON LICENSES COME UP MONDAY

Regular Order of Business by Lower Board, Which Must Reconsider Everyone Passed by It in January

LIBRARY ASSESSMENT IS PAID.

Saloonkeepers, who have been more agitated over the license question in Paducah this month than for many a day, will go through the mills of the board of councilmen again on Monday night, when the matter will come up in the regular order of business. The lower board passed the license once, but a discrepancy in the ordinance was afterwards discovered, and that being remedied, the six months' licenses must be introduced again. The aldermen will take them up the Thursday following. This throws the business into February when it should have been attended to in January, but that is not the fault of the saloonkeepers.

Other licenses must all be paid by tomorrow night, to avoid the ten per cent penalty. A great many people have been deferring the paying of licenses until the last moment in order to have the use of the money as long as possible, and as usual many of them will forget until they are haled before the ordinance court and summarily dealt with.

The Library Fund.

What appears to have been a general misunderstanding resulted in the library apportionment being $4,000, as it was last year, instead of $3,500 as the lower board of the general council had it, or $4,500 as the finance committee of the board of aldermen had it. President Bagby, of the library board, asked for $4,500, contemplating the street assessment for the paving of Broadway and Ninth street. But the city is paying for this work, amounting to some $600. It is possible that the city will be called on to look after the paving of the alley between the Carnegie building and Grace Episcopal church.

Abolish Capital Punishment.

Topeka, Kan., Jan. 30.—A bill to abolish capital punishment passed the senate today and now goes to the governor for signature.

WEATHER — Partly cloudy and decidedly colder tonight and Thursday cold wave. The highest temperature yesterday, 44; lowest today, 33.

TOBACCO GROWERS AGREE TO BEHAVE

Will Not Burn Each Other's Barns Any More

Get Together at Kuttawa and Sign Compact Not to Molest Anyone In or Out.

FOUR INDEPENDENT DEALERS.

Members of the Dark Tobacco Growers' association and independent tobacco dealers have effected a compromise, and all is peace and harmony in Lyon and Caldwell counties. Every resident in those counties may now go to bed with no fear of molestation from "night riders"; for the loss of his barn, tobacco and other property through incendiary fires. Final adjustment was effected yesterday at Kuttawa, and the news will be received with pleasure generally.

Yesterday at Kuttawa the dark tobacco growers' delegates agreed to see that no more lawlessness is perpetrated; that independent dealers are unmolested, and further that the writing of anonymous letters, threatening destruction of property if the receiver does not join the dark growers' forces shall cease.

Independents and association men settled on this same basis in Caldwell county two weeks ago, but Lyon county seemed to have been the hot bed of the trouble and after several futile attempts a conference was held between representatives of both factions.

"We simply informed the dark growers that if any further lawlessness developed, we would resort to the same method, and for every independent barn burned, we would burn ten association barns," a well known Kuttawa tobacco man stated. "This had the desired effect. They realized we could play the game as well as they, and an agreement was easily reached yesterday. We now have doing business in our town four firms. They are E. J. O'Brien & Co., Paducah; Smith & Anderson, Clarksville; A. B. Jarvis, Henderson, and the association. The Dark Tobacco Growers' association and barns have tobacco barns in Kuttawa, and the other two firms will load at the railroad."

POSTOFFICE SITE AT MAYFIELD, KY.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 30.—A site for the new postoffice at Mayfield, Ky., the treasury department has purchased the lot on which stands the Christian church. The price was $7,000.

Attachment Issued Against Rafts in Clark's River.

Deputy Sheriff Clark Fortson yesterday levied on two rafts belonging to Henry Kirksey at the mouth of Clark's river. A. C. Shelton and wife secured a judgment in circuit court for $150 against Kirksey for debt, but found no property. The judgment was lost, and only the record of the costs could be found. Shelton desires that the raft be sold to satisfy the costs amounting to $81. Ross & Temple also took out an attachment against Kirksey's rafts to settle a note for $25.

THREE EPOCHS IN A WOMAN'S LIFE

MRS. ELVA BARBER EDWARDS

There are three critical stages in a woman's life which leave their mark in her career. The first of these stages is womanhood, or the change from a care free girl to budding womanhood. The second is motherhood, and the third is Change of Life.

Perils surround each of these stages, and most of the misery that comes to women through ill health dates from one or another of these important crises.

Women should remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from native roots and herbs has carried thousands of young girls over the critical period of puberty, has prepared mothers for childbirth, and in later years carried them safely through the change of life more successfully than any other remedy in the world. Thousands of testimonials from grateful persons, two of which are here published, substantiate this fact beyond contradiction.

Mrs. George Walters of Woodlawn, Ill. writes:

"I feel it my duty to tell you of the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me in preparing for childbirth. After suffering and losing my children a friend advised me to try your valuable medicine, and the result was that I had very little inconvenience, a quick recovery and as healthy a child as can be found anywhere. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a blessing to all expectant mothers."

Mrs. Elva Barber Edwards of Cathlamet, Wash., writes:

"I want to tell you how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carried me through the critical period of the Change of Life without any trouble whatever, also cured me of a very severe female weakness. I cannot say enough in praise of what your medicine has done for me."

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for Mrs. Walters and Mrs. Edwards it will do for other women in their condition. Every suffering woman in the United States is asked to accept the following invitation. It is free, will bring you health and may save your life.

Mrs. Pinkham's invitation to Women.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. Out of her vast volume of experience in treating female ills Mrs. Pinkham probably has the very knowledge that will help your case. Her advice is free and helpful.

BROWNING'S BATS WERE HIS MASCOTS

George Dovey Tells Anecdotes of Great Hitter

Former Paducah Player Who Has Broken Into Major Class—Owns Boston.

WELL EQUIPPED FOR SPORT.

George Dovey, new owner of the Boston National League club, is well fitted for his new position if past experience counts for anything. Not only has Dovey actual experience as a ball player in professional company, but he also knows a thing or two about dealing with players in a financial way, and his connection with the street car building company has given him an excellent insight into the financial side of the baseball game in general. With these advantages he starts out as well equipped as any of the owners who have broken into the game in recent years.

Both George Dovey and his brother, William, the latter now the secretary of the Boston club, know baseball from a player's point of view. Both played with the Paducah club back in the time when Chris Von der Ahe was winning pennants with the Browns under the management of Charles Comiskey. George did not stay with the game as long as his brother, as he remained behind in Louisville in order to take care of the coal business the two were interested in. William, or as he was more familiarly known, "Bill," played with the Browns, and in his day he was considered a high-class infielder. George might also have played in St. Louis, but of that later on.

George was mixed up in baseball deals as far back as the Brotherhood days, and if the two leagues ever go to war again Dovey should be one of the National League war cabinet.

Dovey knew Pete Browning, the one-time famous batsman, well, and when the war was on between the two big leagues and the Brotherhood, Dovey was the one the scouts secured to introduce them to Browning. Dovey says that Browning was the most peculiar ball player he ever had dealings with.

Browning's Bats.

"Talk about Jesse Burkett being a crank," says Dovey, "why, he is not in the same class that Browning was. I remember one time when we went around to sign him up we found him in the kitchen. We sat there and talked baseball for about an hour, when Pete insisted that we move to the basement. The basement looked like a cave and from the ceiling hung more baseball bats than I have ever seen before or since. Not only this, but around in the corners of the room were other bats standing against the wall. Browning knew the history of every one of these bats and, bringing down one from the ceiling, he would say:

"This is the one I put the ball over the fence with at Chicago." "Going along the line he would tell you the record of every bat in the lot. Some had made particularly long hits, while others had won games. Those in the corners were the ones he had discarded, and he would tell you that certain bats were only good to make fouls or pop flies, and nothing would alter his opinion that the bats possessed certain virtues of their own, unaffected by the player handling them."

"Browning was a lanky youngster when he first broke into the game as a pitcher. He always could hit like a house afire and pretty soon he was shifted into the infield. He played around the infield for awhile, but was never a shining success, though he imagined he was a star. Finally he was shifted to the outfield, though it almost broke his heart at first. After the got used to the outfield you could not get him to think there was any other place on the team as good. He was a great fielder and they could not come too hard or go too far for him. At bat he was a terror to the pitchers, as he was liable to break a game up any minute with a long drive."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"Why did you dismiss that employee?" asked one railway official. "He became annoying," answered the other; "he insisted on trying to figure out how much we could save by economizing on wreckages instead of on the payroll of signal operators."—Washington Star.

SAW SILHOUETTE ON OFFICE DOOR

Dr. Feist Did Not Deny Embracing Mrs. Mangrum

His Trial on Charge of Murdering the Woman, Whose Body Floated Down Ohio River.

TESTIMONY OF PROSECUTION.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 30.—Hearing of evidence against Dr. Feist in the Mrs. Rosa Mangrum murder case was resumed in criminal court this morning. Mrs. Mangrum was murdered in Nashville. It is believed, and her body thrown into the Cumberland river. It was recovered at Cairo, Detectives at first thought the murder was committed at Paducah.

Dr. W. N. Holmes was called for the state. His office was in the Wilcox building. Witness was on the same floor with Dr. Feist. He knew Mrs. Rosa Mangrum; had seen her go into Dr. Feist's office fifty times, perhaps. At one time he saw a silhouette or shadow on the door. It was late, about 5 o'clock. He saw the shadow of the silhouette on the door. He recognized the parties as Dr. Feist and Mrs. Mangrum. They were embracing and kissing passionately. Witness told Dr. Feist next day to be careful when he did such things and get back of the light. Dr. Feist said "By God he did not deny doing it." Witness saw Mrs. Mangrum come out of the building shortly afterwards.

Dr. Feist visited Mrs. Mangrum. Miss Oulu Cullom was next called by the state. Mrs. Martha Cullom was her mother. She assisted her mother in conducting a boarding house on High and Union. Mr. and Mrs. Mangrum boarded there two years. Dr. Feist visited Mrs. Mangrum at their boarding house many times. Mrs. Mangrum said every day she was going to Dr. Feist's office to take treatment. When she was sick he would come there. When Dr. Feist was coming to see her she would call her maid early, would have the room put in order, put on a clean gown, have the bedding changed, and combed her hair, and always tried to look her best. Witness remembered one time Dr. Feist staid longer than doctors generally stay. He had been there half an hour, perhaps. She remembered when he came in and when he went out he ran over a little child and picked it up.

Horrible mother—I just this minute saw Mr. Niecefello's arm around your waist. It's perfectly awful. Repentant Daughter—Y-e-e-s, mother; but it would be a—a good deal more awful to see his arm around some other girl's waist.—Illustrated Bits.

This is what the doctor said

"Most Physicists are Dangerous." A good doctor is particular about the medicines he prescribes, and, therefore, he never allows his patient to take any physic that makes him weak. A physic that leaves one weak does great harm to the muscles lying along the walls of the stomach, bowels and intestines. Such a physic so shocks the muscles that they cannot soon recover their strength and therefore a case of constipation is developed. The bowels must be cleansed again before the muscles have regained sufficient strength to do so voluntarily, and so another and stronger dose of the physic must be taken. This forms what is known as the "Physic Habit."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

is a safe physic because it so strengthens the bowel muscles that they can perform their functions without any further aid. This great remedy has unequalled tonic properties which gives great strength to all parts of the stomach, bowels and intestines. A dose will give an excellent bowel movement and so refresh and give strength to the patient that he will soon be able to get along without any medicine whatever.

Mark Twain On the Lincoln Farm

There is a natural human instinct that is gratified by the sight of anything hallowed by association with a great man or with great deeds. So people make pilgrimages to the town whose streets were once trodden by Shakespeare, and Hartford guarded her Charter Oak for centuries because it had once had a hole in it that helped to save the liberties of a colony. But in most cases the connection between the great man or the great event and the relic we revere is accidental. Shakespeare might have lived in another town as well as in Stratford, and Connecticut's charter might have been hidden in a woodchuck hole as well as in the Charter Oak. But it was no accident that planted Lincoln on a Kentucky farm, half-way between the lakes and the gulf. The association there had substance in it. Lincoln belonged just where he was put. If the Union was to be saved, it had to be a man of such an origin that should save it. No wintry New England Brahmin could have done it, or any torrid cotton-planter regarding the distant Yankee as a species of obnoxious foreigner. It needed a man of the Border where civil war meant the grapple of brother with brother and disunion a raw and gaping wound. I needed one who knew slavery not from books only, but as a living thing, knew the good that was mixed with its evil, and knew the evil not merely as it affected the negroes, but in its hardly less baleful influence upon the poor whites. It needed one who knew how human all the parties to the quarrel were, how much alike they were at bottom, who saw them all reflected in himself, and felt their dissensions like the tearing apart of his own soul. When the war came erial to the great citizen who was born there.

The farm is ideal for such a purpose. Consisting of one hundred and ten acres in the rolling blue grass region of Larue county, Kentucky, it is crossed by a picturesque stream, has many shady groves, and possesses the famous rock spring near which it is proposed that the Lincoln statue shall be erected. But a short distance away, along the turnpike, stands the old mill where Lincoln used to go with his father, the boy ated astride a sack of corn on the road back of the old mare. When he park is developed it is said that he Louisville & Nashville railroad will establish a branch terminal near the entrance.

The plan of the Lincoln Farm association is very simple, and seems to have been inspired by a profound belief in the individual patriotism of American men and women. Instead of appealing to a wealthy few to carry out the work, the association has given its cause to the whole people, asking "every man, woman and child in whose heart is the love of country and a reverence for the memory of Lincoln" to become a member. Each member is called upon to contribute whatever amount he or she wishes, provided it is not less than twenty-five cents or more than twenty-five dollars, and to every member is issued a large, handsomely engraved certificate of membership, bearing the seal of the association, with the autographs of the officers and trustees. The name of the member is then entered in the permanent catalog, which is to be kept forever in a place of honor in the Historical building to be erected at the park. Thus the funds are being raised by popular membership subscriptions, and already the names are coming in by hundreds from every state in the Union, more than fifteen thousand having joined before November 1. The labor unions, fraternal orders, historical societies, women's clubs and organizations of all sorts have pledged themselves to spread the work during the coming winter, and seventy-five per cent of the daily newspapers, recognizing the broadly democratic spirit and typical Americanism of the movement, have promised to give the tremendous weight of publicity to it.

The officers and board of trustees of the Lincoln Farm association, which has its offices at 74 Broadway, New York, City, are as follows: Joseph W. Folk, president, governor of Missouri; Joseph H. Choate, ex-ambassador to England; Henry Watterson, editor of Louisville "Courier-Journal"; Cardinal Gibbons, archbishop of Baltimore; Edward M. Shepard, lawyer and author; August Belmont, director of Louisville & Nashville R. R.; Horace Porter, ex-ambassador to France; William Travers Jerome, district attorney of New York County; Jenkin Lloyd Jones, director Lincoln Centre, Chicago; Charles A. Towne, congressman from New York; William H. Taft, secretary of war; Lyman J. Gage, ex-secretary of treasury; Norman Hapgood, of "Collier's"; Ida M. Tarbell, biographer of Lincoln; Samuel L. Clemens ("Mark Twain"); Augustus Saint-Gaudens, sculptor; Albert Shaw, editor of "Review of Reviews"; Thomas Hastings, architect; Robert J. Collier, of "Collier's"; Clarence Mackay, treasurer, president Postal Telegraph and Cable company; Richard Lloyd Jones, secretary.

In a village in New Jersey the school mistress saw one of the little boys crying. She called him to her and inquired the reason. "Some of the big boys made me kiss a little girl out in the school yard," was the reply. "Why, that is outrageous! Why did you not come right to me?" "I didn't know that you would let me kiss you," he said.—Chicago Daily News.

WARM CLOTH MADE FROM PINE TREES

The Fibre of Pine Needle Spun to Resemble Wool

Woven Into Material That Is Used to Make Blankets and Garments.

PINE MEDICATES THE CLOTH

In Germany and Sweden the great Pine forests furnish not only timber and medicine, but cloth as well. The Pine leaves are treated with a solution of soda and the fiber applied to textile purposes under the name of "Wald Wolle," or forest wool. It has some resemblance to coarse wool and is spun and woven into blankets and garments that are said to be warm and durable. The Pine medicates the cloth so perfectly that eruptions and skin diseases are unknown to the wearer.

The medicinal properties of the Pines are known throughout the world. An eminent authority on diseases of the throat and lungs, established a camp for consumptives in the Pine Woods of Maine and made so many remarkable cures that his treatment attracted great attention from the medical world. His methods were endorsed by the highest authorities. The treatment was very simple, consisting of open air exercise deep breathing and nourishing food. Every four hours the patient was given one teaspoonful of a mixture of the Pure Virgin Oil from the White Pine Trees combined with Whisky and Glycerine, in the following proportion:

Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) ½ oz.
Glycerine ..... 2"
Whiskey ..... 8"

This treatment strengthened the lungs and healed the bronchial tubes. It is claimed that this treatment will break a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable. The ingredients can be secured from any good prescription druggist at small cost and can be easily mixed in your own home.

Inquiry at the prescription department of one of the leading druggists elicited the information that Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure) is put up only in half-ounce vials for dispensing. Each vial is securely sealed in a round wooden case, with engraved wrapper with the name—"Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure)"—plainly printed thereon. There are many rank imitations of Virgin Oil of Pine (Pure), which are being put out under various names, such as Concentrated Oil of Pine, Pine Balsam, etc. Never accept these as a substitute for the Pure Virgin Oil of Pine, as they will invariably produce nausea and never effect the desired results.

Most of us would hold happiness longer if we only knew how to take hold of it when we had found it.

GOOD WORK

Done Daily in Paducah—Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Paducah still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of friends and neighbors. Read this case:

"B. C. Jones, of Newbern, Livingston county, Ky., writes: 'I had backache for seven years and I sought for a long time something to check the excessive flow of the kidney secretions, but found no relief. I was weak, had the backache all day and night for 40 years. I could not sleep well and was about giving up all hope of ever being relieved for I had consulted doctors and tried everything I could get hold of. When I first saw your advertisement in one of the papers I concluded to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and I got a supply. I found to my joy that they gave me great relief. I was entirely freed from pain and also from the irregularities which had annoyed me so much. That was over five months ago, and I have not had a headache since, although I had suffered in this way since I was a small boy. I have recommended the pills to 50 different persons, some of them in Paducah, and a great many have reported to me the good results they have derived from using them.'

Plenty more proof like this from Paducah people. Call at Alvey & List's drug store and ask what customers report.

APPORTOINMENTS

ORDINANCE PASSED ON BOTH READINGS BY ALDERMEN.

Session Was Brief and Harmonious—Allow Interest Claim of Former Bond Issues.

The special meeting of the board of aldermen last night was brief, lasting only long enough to give two readings to the apportionment ordinance and to further instruct City Solicitor James Campbell, Jr., to at once proceed to test the validity of the charter amendment providing for thirty police.

Interest on $200,000 street and hospital bonds, and $150,000 railroad bonds was allowed.

NEWS OF KENTUCKY

Night Riders at Work.

Cadiz, Ky., Jan. 30.—Night riders have visited the barns of several farmers in Trigg county. L. A. Miller, a member of the association, had sold a crop under the "Cadiz agreement." Several hundred pounds of fairs tobacco was thrown out in the snow and more scattered about in the barn. A man named Pinkerton, near Cadiz, and another named Hawkins, on Cerulean Springs road, and several others were given similar hostile visits. A part of Hawkins' tobacco was thrown in a pond and destroyed. Threatening notes were left warning the parties to put their crops in association at once. L. A. Miller was here to secure a release from a sale contract with the Imperial Tobacco company as a result of threats made.

Hopkins for Low Fare.

Madisonville, Jan. 30.—The Democratic committee of Hopkins county has met and called a primary to be held on May 13, to nominate a candidate for representative. At the meeting the following resolutions were adopted: Pledge to voters of Hopkins county that said nominee, if elected, will vote and work to force railroad companies of Kentucky to only charge two cents per mile for riding on passenger trains in Kentucky. Pledge said nominee, if elected, to vote for and use all honorable means to have laws passed to prevent railroad companies from discriminating against small shippers. We further pledge said nominee, if elected, to vote for and try to have laws passed forcing railroad companies in Kentucky to accept and handle all freight offered them without delay.

Attached Tombstones.

Hopkinsville, Jan. 30.—A judgment has been rendered in the county court in favor of Wells Brothers against D. M. Boyd for $85.25 and to satisfy the judgment the sale is ordered of a tombstone now marking the last resting place of four members of the Boyd family in the neighborhood burying ground near Kelley. The tombstone is described as of "Whitley granite, 4 feet tall, 38 inches thick." Four footstones are also included in the order of sale. When the sale of the tombstone was made a lien was retained on the monument and upon the alleged failure of the purchaser to fulfill his obligation on it the suit was brought and judgment rendered.

Gang in the Saddle.

Lexington, Ky., Jan. 30.—Willie Viley, manager of the mayoralty campaign of J. Tevis Wilkerson, refused to serve on a committee of the city Democratic committee to receive and count the votes cast in the primary election for municipal officers here February 7. Mr. Viley said the members of the committee appointed with aim to perfect a list of election officers had been "brutal and unfair" in their treatment of him as the representative of Mr. Wilkerson, refusing to give him any consideration, and that he would "wash his hands of the entire business." The Skalm men were named as election officers, leaving Wilkerson with a minor representation.

LOST $60,000 ON ZERO MARK.

Backed Judgment and Did Not Believe in Cold Wave.

Chicago, Jan. 30.—A fortune of over $100,000 was lost to bettors when the mercury dropped three points below the zero mark. "Jim" O'Leary, the gambling king, is the principal loser, his loss being estimated at from $40,000 to $60,000. Many big brokers and operators on the board of trade lost large sums. The largest bet recorded was one of $10,000. Scores of other bets were made.

ATLANTA REFORMING.

Indictments Are Returned Against Alleged Bucket Shops.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 29.—The Fulton county grand jury today returned indictments against the managers and employees of the board of trade, the commercial exchange and the brokerage offices of C. N. Anderson, charging them with violation of the Boykin anti-bucket shop law. Those indicted are Holland Curran, John Curran, Albert Curran, Gus Beecher, T. M. Hamilton, Sr., E. Danny, Edward Whitelaw, Louis Huffaker, Harry Anderson and C. N. Anderson, the same ten men who were indicted a few weeks ago charged with running gambling houses, and who were out under bonds.

They were required to give additional bonds of $1,000 each today to answer for the new indictments, which charged them with selling futures on margins.

Removal Sale of A. Pollock's Jewelry Store

About February 15th we will take possession of our new store room—now occupied by the Great Pacific Tea and Coffee Co., 333 Broadway. In the meantime we have made startling reductions on our entire line of Watches, Diamonds and Jewelry. This for two reasons: First, we wish to move as little as possible of the present and, when we get into our new location, we mean to have a clean, new stock. If you need anything in our line give us a call, for we have made a cut of 50 per cent in many instances.

Georgia sent an army in gray and Massachusetts an army in blue, but Kentucky raised armies for both sides. And this man, sprung from southern poor whites born on a Kentucky farm and transplanted to an Illinois village, this man, in whose heart knowledge and charity had left no room for malice, was marked by Providence as the one to "bind up the nation's wounds." His birthplace is worth saving.

The above article by the great American author and humorist Mark Twain, refers to the movement on foot to make of the Lincoln birthplace farm a national park of patriotism. Considering the preservation of Mount Vernon, the Washington monument the classic tomb of Grant, and the score of other memorials to lesser heroes of our republic, it is really a remarkable instance of national neglect that more than forty years should have been passed without a fitting tribute to the memory of Lincoln, who bore the heaviest burden ever carried by an American president and fell in harness, a victim of assassination. There is no knowing when any action would have been taken had it not been that the Lincoln birthplace farm was put up at auction in August 1905, that the proceeds might be used to pay the back taxes. All but one of the bidders represented some business concern, anxious to get control of the property for advertising purposes; but this one bidder saved the farm and averted what would have been a national disgrace. He represented a private citizen, who believed the historic ground should be the property of the American people, and, having acquired the place, he turned it over to an association of public-spirited men, who quickly organized and determined to develop it into a Lincoln National Park that should stand forever as a shrine of patriotism and peace, a fitting mem-

Daily Thought.
"The thing worth while must be a good investment."

CRY FOR GOOD ROADS.
Better roads!

The cry goes up from one end of the country to the other. Tennessee counties have petitioned the state legislature for permission to issue
bonds to the aggregate amount of $2,000,000. These are for the rural counties. The four counties in which are located the large cities of that state employ sufficient workhouse
prisoners on the roads to keep them
all piked. The desire for better roads was fostered by the models
maintained near Jackson by Hon.
Sam Lancaster, government engineer,
and the examples of the larger counties. Mr. Lancaster has gone to Oregon to set the example for the Pacific coast farmer.

The farmer is at last awakening to
the realization that his time, the strain on his horses and the wear and tear on his vehicles enter into the economy of his business; that accessibility to a good market at all seasons of the year is profitable, and that freedom of intercourse is desirable in that season when work is slack on the farm and he has the time for social diversions.

Probably the free rural delivery
has had a good effect on the movement, supported by pamphlets and special articles on the subject, which have been distributed bounteously
during the last two years. The postoffice department insists on good roads for the carriers, and the better
the roads, naturally, the better the service.

As the next step must come the startling realization to many citizens
that in dodging road taxes they are not defrauding the government, but themselves. It seems to be an inherent instinct to get out of a duty to the community. No one suffers when a man refuses to work his own road,
but that man and his own neighbors.
Every man must do his share, and whether or not his neighbor shirks is nothing to him, nor does the fact relieve him of his obligation to faithful service in the interest of good roads.

By all means, let us retain the use
of all the river front we haven't already given away. If the present
wharfage is not adequate let us acquire more. Paducah has been more than liberal in the matter of donating river front space to whomsoever asked for it. Now that river men are sounding the warning that the growing traffic will require larger facilities in a short time, the city should take such action at once as will insure the preservation of wharf room. We may rest assured that private concerns, coveting that space
will not let any grass grow under their feet in pre-empting it.

In the latter part of February the state farmers' institute will be held at Shelbyville, and McCracken county should be represented. This county has an institute, which while young, evinced indications last year

of being of great benefit to the agriculture interests of the section.
Through its influence the western district institute was held in this city, and while that meeting was not largely attended, those who did come,
went away impressed with its possibilities. Each county institute in the state is authorized to send as many delegates as it chooses, as the counties vote as units. A crop reporter for each magisterial district
will be recommended by the county delegations, and important work will be done. The McCracken County Farmers' institute should meet at once and appoint delegates who will attend.

The aldermanic deadlock is broken
and the river is falling.

GRAVEL ROADS FOR BALLARD.

Judge J. A. Hines could not have settled upon a better time to have started the ball rolling for gravel roads than now. With the roads of the entire county now practically impassable and no way on earth to better them until the weather becomes more favorable, there should not be a human in the county with a thimble full of brains but who will agree with the judge that something besides mud and dirt is necessary to make them passable during such spells as we have been having for
the past several weeks.

The Yeoman has always been in favor of gravel roads, but we were afraid we would be mobbed to spring
the question of bonding the county
for from $250,000 to $350,000 for that purpose, but since Judge Hines
has made up his mind to take the chances of being mobbed we can stand it, too, especially as everybody,
from one end of the county to the other, now see the absolute necessity of the project. And when it is thoroughly understood at the beginning
that the tax rate can't be raised a particle—its at the limit now—it seems to us that people should almost break their necks falling over
each other to get a chance to vote
for the measure.

At it now stands, we are spending
about fifteen thousand dollars a year
on our roads, and while of course
this makes the roads look nice and dusty too in dry weather, the rains
come and carry the money away each year, leaving the same amount to be squandered again.

The people can easily vote an indebtedness of $300,000 or more, a sum ample to grade and gravel one hundred miles of road, which would put every farm in the county in touch
at all times with every town in the county and the outside world too.
This would mean so much to every acre of land in the county that it seems needless to call attention to it, yet on the other hand, under the present system, we spend the enormous amount of fifteen thousand dollars on the roads annually and have no roads either.

In bonding the county for a sum sufficient to grade and gravel the roads here spoken of the present
rate of 25 cents on the hundred dollars of taxable property would pay
the interest on the bonded indebtedness, and a sinking fund, to finally pay off the bonds at maturity, could be easily provided for by a saving
in the general fund.

Since we are so admirably situated,
with nearly or quite three millions of dollars of taxable property that is owned by foreign corporations, we believe that our people should only be waiting an opportunity to vote for the indebtedness. The subject is well worth the most careful consideration of every land owner in Ballard county, and we shall do our part to keep
it before them until a vote is taken.

The fact that the money would be spent among our own people, giving employment to many teams and men
in all parts of the county, for our benefit, should be some inducement
to vote for the measure.

Go it judge, you are on the right
track without a doubt—Ballard Yeoman.

Society Was Out In Force To See Brilliant Wedding

A wedding which was most impressive in its solemnization and of rare
beauty of plan as well as a brilliant
social event, was that of Miss Martha Stewart Davis and Mr. Edward Hu-ling Bringham at 9 o'clock last evening at the Broadway Methodist church. The southern smilax and palms were used throughout the church decorations. The altar rail
and lights having the smilax in graceful festoons, while garlands of it
were on the organ and over the double doorway leading into the annex
of the church. The chancel was banked with the palms which, also,
made a pretty effect on the outside of the altar rail where the bridal party stood. The seating and standing capacity of the large church, with the annex thrown open, was taxed to accommodate the guests. The many handsome evening toilettes worn by the guests inside "the white ribbons"
added to the brilliancy of the scene.

The bridal party entered the church by the three main aisles.
Messrs. Louis Rieke, Jr., and Wallace Well leading down the center,
Edwin J. Paxton and David Koger
from the left, and Charles Alcott and
Dr. I. B. Howell from the right.

The bridesmaids Miss Mary Scott
and Miss Kathleen Whitefield followed down the central aisle, while the four dames of honor, Mrs. William Sinclair Borton of Atlanta, Ga., and Mrs. Vernon Blythe; Mrs. Henry Rudy
and Mrs. John W. Scott advanced
down the left and right aisles.

The maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth Sinnott, preceded the bride and her brother Mr. Frank Fowler Davis, who gave her away. The bridal processional formed a pretty group at the altar, where they were met by Mr.
Bringham and his best man, Mr. Edward G. Scott, who entered from the choir room. The Rev. Warner Thomas Bolling, D. D., pronounced the ceremony, most impressively, using the ring ritual. The wedding music
enhanced the beauty of the ceremony
and was played by Mrs. Samuel H.
Winstead. The Mendelssohn wedding
march was rendered for the processional, and the march from Lohengrin as the recessional. Lange's
"Flower Song" was played during the ceremony. The bridal party left the church by the central aisle in the following order: Mr. and Mrs. Brin-ghurst; Miss Sinnott and Mr. Scott;
Miss Scott and Miss Whitefield; Mrs.
Borton and Mrs. Blythe; Mrs. Rudy and Mrs. Scott; Messrs. Paxton and Koger; Dr. Howell and Mr. Alcott;
Messrs. Rieke and Well.

Miss Davis was an ideal bride and looked radiantly lovely. Her exquisite wedding gown of white chiffon
cloth was made with the empire effect in the back. The high corsage was of lace and the bodice was elaborately trimmed with lace and lace medallions. The bridal veil was held with a coronet of orange blossoms.
The only jewels worn were a brooch
of pearls and a bracelet, the gifts of the bridegroom. She carried a chat-elaine bouquet of bride's roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor wore a charming gown of white crepe de chine
and pink roses, elaborately trimmed
with lace, and a wreath of pink roses
and silver leaves in her hair. Her bouquet was a graceful effect of pink carnations.

The dames of honor and bridesmaids were gowned in artistic creations of pink point d'esprit over pink silk, trimmed in pink quilled ribbon and medallions of pink lace. Their flower wreaths were of tiny pink rose-
buds and they carried pink carnations. Their souvenirs from the bride were beautiful handkerchiefs of Duchess lace.

Mr. Bringham's gifts to his attendants were handsome pearl knives,
with the names engraved in the pearl.

A reception at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph H.
Fowler, on Kentucky avenue followed the wedding ceremony. This was limited to the bridal party and relatives
but the family circle being a large
one, the spacious rooms were pleasantly filled during the evening. The handsome double parlors were thrown together and were effectively decorated in the southern smilax, pink roses and carnations. The bridal party was in the receiving line in the front parlor.

The dining room presented a most attractive picture. The round bridal table stood beneath a chandelier entwined with smilax, and was bordered with smilax, fluffy loops of pink tulle, and pink carnations. The center piece was a beautiful round Tiffany silver salver on which stood a handsome candelabrum with pink shaded candles. These were bridal gifts, as was also, the massive silver vase holding pink carnations at one end of the table. Outlining the center piece was a wreath of smilax and white hyacinths. At the other table
was the imposing bride's cake, heart
shaped and iced in pink roses and lilies-
of-the-valley. Bows of pink tulle around the edge of the cake made a pretty effect, but when removed by the bridal party gave the significant wedding trinkets to: Miss Mary Scott,

the proverbial lucky ring; Miss Elizabeth Sinnott, the needle; Mrs. William Borton and Mrs. John Scott the pieces of money, and Mr. Edward Scott the button. A delightful two course luncheon was served. The ices were in the form of pink carnations and the individual cakes were iced with the entwined initials "D
and B."

The display of wedding gifts was especially beautiful and the large number of them was a charming compliment to the popularity of the recipients. A handsome and massive silver tray from the bride's grandmother, and a dinner set of 200 pieces in white and gold china,
from the parents of the bridegroom,
and a complete set of silver knives
forks and spoons from the grooms-
men, were some of the beautiful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Bringham left at 4 o'clock this morning for New Orleans
and from there will go to Havana and return by way of Florida. They will be gone a month. Mrs. Bringhurst's tailored traveling suit was of brown cloth with a brown silk blouse
and hat to harmonize.

A number of out-of-town guests
were present for the wedding and some charming costumes were in evidence at the church and reception.

The bride's grandmother, Mrs. Joseph Fowler, received with her, and looked beautiful in a handsome dress
of black crepe de chine.

Mrs. Mildred Fowler Davis, the mother of the bride, was especially handsome in black net over black,
with high transparent corsage of the net and jet trimmings.

Mr. Bringham, wore an elegant reception toilette of grey silk and lace.

Mrs. Cook Husbands was attractively gowned in a black spangled
net evening dress.

Mrs. Edmund Morrow Post wore a striking evening gown of lavender-
corded silk, trimmed in duchesse lace
and amethyst passementerie.

Miss Fowler was in black Brussels net, with low corsage, and black passementerie trimmings.

Miss Rosebud Fowler was charming in a gown of white radium silk,
with embroidered net yoke and lace trimmings. She wore a string of pearls.

Mrs. Lula Bringham Epperson of Nashville, Tenn., a sister of Mr.
Bringham, was strikingly handsome
in an evening gown of cream-corded silk with real lace over
green, the bodice was elaborately trimmed in lace and spangles. She wore a necklace of pearls.

Miss Belle Lockett, of Henderson,
wore a becoming costume of blue silk
and lace.

Miss Anne Rhea, of Nashville, was gowned in blue silk and lace trimmings.

Miss Claiborne, of Nashville, was gowned in cream silk crepe, trimmed
in lace and bands of silk.

Miss Evelyn Walker, of Dyersburg, Tenn., was charming in a pretty
gown of cream embroidered
net over cream taffeta silk,
with pearl trimmings. She carried a graceful bouquet of pink carnations
and ferns.

Mrs. William Harvey Sanders, of Columbia, Miss., wore an artistic gown of white crepe de chine and
lace.

Mrs. Thomas C. Leech was in a handsome evening gown of Nile
green pompadour silk and duchesse
lace.

gown in an art shade of green crepe
de chine over white silk.

attired in black lace over white
silk.

Mrs. Bertie Campbell wore a charming evening gown of blue chif-fon with pearls.

white chiffon lace trimmed with medallions.

RIGHTS OF CALIFORNIA.

Senate Resolves That State Can Maintain Separate Schools for Japs.

Sacramento, Cal., Jan. 30.—The senate today voted down the minority resolution on the Japanese school
question and passed the senate concurrent sub-resolution, reported by the majority.

The majority resolution "strenuously protests against the unwarranted
interference with the constitutional rights of the state and requires the governor and attorney general to do all things necessary to protect and save the rights of the state of California."

The expected arraignment of the president did not materialize. The minority report read: "Whereas, as the president of the United States is attempting to interfere," while the resolution adopted substitutes "federal government" for president.

addition to the director-general, is
to consist of various departments under the chief engineer. It is provided that the director-general's authority

CARLOAD OF ROSES.

Gift of the People of a Texas Town to Hospitals of a Missouri Town.

A carload of fragrant southern roses will arrive in Kansas City tomorrow morning. Beaumont, Tex., originated the idea of collecting a carload of roses to be sent to a northern city for distribution among the hospitals, says the Kansas City Star. ## The Wants of Women.

"Man wants but little here below."
So poet Goldsmith used to say;
But that was many years ago,
And man, he wants a lot today—
A lot of things, a house and lot—
And woman also wants some stuff
To put within the house she's got;
She never seems to have enough.
The Moral.—If you want to sell
A little WANT AD, might be well.

GULF STREAM TURNS.

Course Runs Close to Central America Instead of Cuba.

New Orleans, La., Jan. 30.—Simultaneously with the news of serious earthquakes in all parts of the world comes the announcement that the gulf stream, the great ocean river, has materially changed its course in the Gulf of Mexico. The gulf stream ran close to the western end of Cuba, curving and winding its way toward the American coast from the south, then turning away to the east and passing out, around the Florida peninsula into the northern waters along the Atlantic coast. The new map will show that the stream has moved many miles to the west, now passing close to the coast of Central America, in one big circle, turning to the north and east, instead of keeping the sinuous line it formerly described.

Curiosity of Punctuation.

Since you have requested the example of incorrect punctuation, "It was 'and' I said, not 'of,'" it would be as well to give that even better example, "That that is is that that is not is not that it is." And, to avoid nightmare, we immediately punctuate thus: That that is, is; that that is not, is not, is not that it? It is.—Cor. London Chronicle.

One of the most interesting little charities is that of a Yorkshire, England station master, who every week of his life makes a toy railway engine. At the end of the year he sends the lot to a hospital for the use of the boys in the institution.

Havana Blossom

5c Cigars

The rich, full aroma of Havana Blossoms has certainly caught the fancy of Paducah smokers, if we may judge by the demand. Just received another case direct from Tampa last evening and we should like for you to try them. They're not made for style, you know, but the quality is simply great.

Midget and His Wife Create Interest in Paducah.

Passengers at the Union station this morning were attracted by a midget only three feet tall. His head was much larger than that of a big man and made him look even smaller than he was. He is N. G. W. Winter and with his wife travels over the country exhibiting in the larger stores of each city. He is just a yard stick high and his wife is thirty-five inches tall. He weighs 42 pounds and is 37 years old. Monticello, Iowa, is his home, but he has been in every nook and corner of the country. When the Louisville passenger train arrived the step to the car came to his chin and the conductor had to lift him like a child to the platform. After attending to some business in Princeton, he will join his wife in Metropolis and return to this city in two weeks.

NATURE AS A RECONSTRUCTOR.

"Nature repairs her ravages—repairs them with her sunshine and with human labor."

Osteopathy is one of Nature's most used instruments in repairing her ravages. Take the Osteopathic treatment of headaches. It locates the primary cause and removes it, not in administering a common known sedative to on- and all alike, but by a simple mechanical manipulation.

So, in digestive disorders Osteopathy restores the nervous equilibrium to the stomach, bowels, liver, pancreas, etc., and a unity of action established the disorders are readily controlled and cured.
Constipation can be cured only by observing nature's laws. The regular movements of the bowels depend on their nerve and blood supply. If one or the other is disturbed in any way there is disorder—sickness. Osteopathy here again is Nature's cure.

I should like to tell you personally at any time of the great success I am having with the treatment and refer you to some of your friends who will eagerly attest to what Osteopathy is doing or has done for them. Phone me at 1407 at any time.

ABOUT FORESTRY.

It is hoped that Congressman Sloop of Virginia was not thoroughly understood in some remarks attributed to him regarding lumbering. He is reported as saying:

"I reckon I own my land, and can do as I please with it. Why should I let the timber on my land stand and decay just to please the forest service? It is as good as it will ever get, and, besides, we need more cleared land. Farming land is growing more valuable every day. No, sir, even if the forest service does tell us we had better let our timber stand, we in the Southwest will continue our lumbering business as we do now. There was never so much money to be made out of the lumbering business as there is today, and I believe there never will be more made out of it than there is now. That is the reason why I am sawing wood."

Those remarks indicate an utter lack of comprehension of the aims of the forest service. Its purpose is not to destroy the lumbering interest of the country, but to preserve it, and also to prevent the destruction of the reservoirs or great streams, especially those having their sources in the Southern Appalachians. The forest service of the National Department of Agriculture is an outgrowth of the rebound in this country from the shortsighted and wasteful methods of handling forests that have turned vast tracts of timber land into barrens and have threatened the permanent loss of supply of certain important wood. The rebound has created a conviction that there is no more

A lot of folks who think of faith reason why a timber tract should be permanently exhausted than that a piece of land should not be maintained forever as of value in agriculture. Opposition to scientific forestry, which means common-sense forestry, on the ground that there never was so much money to be made out of the lumbering business, and that more cleared land is needed for farm operations, as akin to the policy, once the normal in some parts of the country, of cutting down or burning magnificent timber simply for the purpose of gaining new land for farm ing and letting the old fields wash or rot away almost beyond reclamation. It is a manifestation of the spirit which is sometimes called American optimism, but is often really American foolhardiness, the spirit which assumes that any liberties whatever may be taken with nature, and that somehow or other nature will not resent it.

But compulsory substitution of one kind of wood in building operations for another kind once plentiful, the search for other substitutes with stringency developing in many directions, the drying up of formerly abundant springs, the dwindling of mountain streams, and the sudden and devastating floods in rivers once steadily flowing as sources of mechanical power and as the mediums of commerce have aroused the practical interest of thousands of men in all parts of the country who live and work not for the day alone, but who look to the distant future, and as provident men would provide against it. They know the lumbering operations may be conducted upon a profitable as well as an economic basis, and that such conduct is absolutely necessary for the maintenance of the lumber business. They will regret, if it is true, that any member of Congress and especially any member from the part of the South included in the plan for a great forest reserve, is serious in his opposition to the wise policy of the forest service—Exchange.

SENATOR MARTIN AS FLOOR LEADER

May be Chosen by Minority to Succeed Blackburn

Nearly Every Democrat in the Upper House Is Receptive Candidate
for Honor.

THE NOBEL PRIZE COMMISSION.

Washington, Jan. 30.—Senator Martin, of Virginia, may succeed Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, as floor leader of the minority after the 4th of March next, when the term of the latter expires. The question of the caucus chairmanship is exciting no little interest in Democratic circles. There are half a dozen receptive candidates—Senators Bacon, of Georgia; Culberson, of Texas, and Tillman, of South Carolina, among them. In fact, nearly every Democrat in the senate has been mentioned for the position, but several senators expressed the opinion today that the Virginia senator would be about the best leader the minority could decide upon.

Nobel Prize Trustees.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The initial meeting of the board of trustees of President Roosevelt's Nobel prize foundation for industrial peace took place today. Those present were Secretary Straus, Chief Justice Fuller, Secretary Wilson, Marvin Hughitt and John Mitchell. Steps were taken for the permanent organization of the board of trustees, and some discussion was had as to the work to be undertaken. Another meeting will be held in the near future. An act of incorporation will be asked from congress, the trustees being named as incorporators. Messrs. Straus and Hughitt lunched with the president this afternoon.

WHEN MAY SOLDIER SHOOT?

Government Defending Man Prosecuted by State.

Pittsburg, Jan. 30.—Testimony to show that William Crowley, after he had cried out, "I'll give up; don't shoot, fellow," was shot by Private John Down upon orders from Lieut. Ralph W. Drury of the Ninth United States Infantry, was given at the trial of Dowd and Drury for murder today. The case is regarded as the most important of its kind that has been tried in a decade. The commonwealth is prosecuting, while the government is defending the soldiers. Some sensational testimony for the prosecution met by equally surprising hints as to the line of defense to be followed, was brought out in the cross-examination of witnesses. The particular question at issue concerns the right of a United States soldier to kill another man outside of federal property who is suspected of having committed a crime within government property.

Long Live the King!

is the popular cry throughout European countries; while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of Throat and Lung Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throats after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only sure cure. Guaranteed by all druggists. 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

THE REASON WHY

only the purest, freshest drugs enter our prescriptions is, that with our large and growing business, we are able to turn over our stock of medicines, chemicals and pharmaceutical preparations a dozen times a year, where a smaller druggist can move his supplies only once or twice. In this way our prescriptions are fresh, potent and of dependable quality and are sure to act as your physician expects. Extreme care is given each prescription by competent registered clerks, and our careful checking system insures against mistakes.

GRAVES DEMAND IMPROVED ROADS

Probably Will Issue Bonds
For the Work

Delegation Holds Conference With Judge Lightfoot and McCracken Officers.

ONLY FIVE MILES OF PIKES

The crying need of better roads in Graves county has received recognition, and steps are to be taken to improve roads in that county at once. Yesterday a conference was held by a delegation from Mayfield with County Judge R. T. Lightfoot, County Attorney Alben Barkley and Road Supervisor Bert Johnson at the court house, and good roads were thoroughly discussed. McCracken county roads, the best in western Kentucky, are taken as a standard, and local officials were more than glad to give any information possible.

The Mayfield delegation was composed of County Judge Ed Crossland, County Attorney J. S. Weeks, Sheriff W. L. Brand, Road Supervisor T. C. Pinson, Magistrate E. L. Garrett, Captain Jim Lemon, of the Mayfield Messenger and several others. Graves county is now out of debt and may issue bonds for road improvements, this seeming to be the favored method of road improvements. There are but five miles of graveled roads in Graves, just outside of Mayfield.

A special meeting of Graves fiscal court has been called for Saturday.

BIG LINER CUTS WHALE IN TWO

First Mate Bill Spicer Says It's True—Some Can't Believe Tale.

New York, Jan. 30.—The ship St. Andrews, Phoenix Line, from Antwerp, came across the brine, arriving safely here today and docked at Hoboken, N. J. First Mate Bill Spicer, famed of old, these strange adventures calmly told:

"On Wednesday morn at 4 o'clock the liner reeled with sudden shock. Distressed did our propeller fall when some one yelled: 'We've struck a whale.'"

"Stand by and launch the boat," I cried and when we had it over-side we found the lookout's cry was true, we'd cut a blooming whale in two. Of course that meant the whale was dead and all we found was just his head. A blooming ton flat head-piece weighed. The shock bent our propeller blade.

"At 4 p. m. that very day, not more than three ship lengths away, we saw—it made us look and shout—a bally, bleeding water spout. A thousand feet it was at base," said Spicer, with a solemn face, "and where the cloud line met the spout it seemed in width a mile—about."

Bill Spicer told it without mirth. So take the yarn for what it's worth.

NO MAN IS STRONGER THAN HIS STOMACH.

Let the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his muscles would soon fail. Physical strength is derived from food. If a man has insufficient food he loses strength. If he has no food he dies. Food is converted into nutrition through the stomach and bowels. It depends on the strength of the stomach to what extent food enters is digested and assimilated. People can die of starvation who have abundant food to eat, when the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition do not perform their duty. Thus the stomach is really the vital organ of the body. If the stomach is "weak" the body will be weak also, because it is upon the stomach the body relies for its strength. And as the body, considered as a whole, is made up of its several members and organs, so the weakness of the body as a consequence of "weak" stomach will be distributed among the organs which compose the body. If the body is weak because it is ill-nourished that physical weakness will be found in all the organs—heart, liver, kidneys, etc. The liver will be torpid and inactive, giving rise to biliousness, loss of appetite, weak nerves, feeble or irregular action of heart, palpitation, dizziness, headache, backache and kindred disturbances and weaknesses.

Mr. Louis Pare, of Quebec, writes: "For years after my health began to fail, my head grew dizzy, eyes pained me, and everything was sore all the time, while everything I would eat would seem to lie heavy like lead on my stomach. The doctors claimed that it was sympathetic trouble due to dyspepsia, and prescribed for me, and although I took their powders regularly yet I felt no better. My wife advised me to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and stop taking the doctors' medicine. She bought me a bottle and we soon found that I began to improve, so I kept up the treatment. I took a few more bottles and my stomach became normal, the digestive organs worked perfectly and I soon began to look like a different person. I took a few more bottles and I am grateful for what your medicine has done for me and I certainly give it highest praise." Don't be wheedled by a penny-grubbing dealer into taking inferior substitutes for Dr. Pierce's medicines, recommended to be "just as good."

To gain knowledge of your own body—in sickness and health—send for the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser. A book of 1008 pages. Send $1 one-cent stamps for paper-covered or $1 stamps for cloth-bound copy. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHAPTER III.

LEAVING his house, Chilcote walked forward quickly and aimlessly. With the sting of the outer air the recollection of last night's adventure came back upon him. Since the hour of his waking it had hung about with vague persistence, but now in the clear light of day it seemed to stand out with a fuller peculiarity.

The thing was preposterous, nevertheless it was genuine. He was wearing the overcoat he had worn the night before, and, acting on impulse, he thrust his hand into the pocket and drew out the stranger's card.

"Mr. John Loder?" He read the name over as he walked along, and it mechanically repeated itself in his brain, falling into measure with his steps. Who was John Loder? What was he? The questions tantalized him till his pace unconsciously increased. The thought that two men so absurdly alike could inhabit the same city and remain unknown to each other faced him as a problem. It tangled with his personal worries and aggravated them. There seemed to be almost a danger in such an extraordinary likeness. He began to regret his impetuosity in thrusting his card upon the man. Then, again, how he had let himself go on the subject of Lexington! How narrowly he had escaped compromise! He turned hot and cold at the recollection of what he had said and what he might have said. Then for the first time he paused in his walk and looked about him.

On leaving Grosvenor square he had turned westward, moving rapidly till the Marble arch was reached. There, still oblivious to his surroundings, he had crossed the roadway to the Edgware road, passing along it to the labyrinth of shabby streets that lie behind Paddington. Now, as he glanced about him, he saw with some surprise how far he had come.

The damp remnants of the fog still hung about the houseposts in a filmy veil. There were no glimpses of green to break the monotony of tone. All was quiet, dingy, neglected. But to Chilcote the shabbiness was restful, the subdued atmosphere a satisfaction. Among these sad houses, these passers-by, each filled with his own concerns, so experienced a sense of respite and relief. In the fashionable streets that bounded his own horizon if a man paused in his walk to work out an idea he instantly drew a crowd of inquisitive or contemptuous eyes. Here if a man halted for half an hour it was nobody's business but his own. Enjoying this thought, he wandered on for close upon an hour, moving from one street to another with steps that were listless or rapid, as inclination prompted. Then, still acting with vagrant aimlessness, he stopped in his wanderings and entered a small eating house.

The place was low ceiled and dirty, the air hot and steaming with the smell of food. But Chilcote passed through the door and moved to one of the tables with no expression of disgust and with far less furtive watchfulness than he used in his own house. By a curious mental twist he felt greater freedom, larger opportunities in drab surroundings such as these than in the broad issues and weighty responsibilities of his own life. Choosing a corner seat, he called for coffee; and there, protected by shadow and wrapped in cigarette smoke, he set about imagining himself some vagrant unit who had slipped his moorings and was blissfully adrift.

The imagination was pleasant while it lasted, but with him nothing was permanent. Of late the greater part of his sufferings had been comprised in the irritable fickleness of all his times—the distaste for and impossibility of sustained effort in any direction. He had barely lighted a second cigarette when the old restlessness fell upon him. He stirred nervously in his seat, and the cigarette was scarcely burned out when he rose, paid his small bill and left the shop.

Outside on the pavement he halted, pulled out his watch and saw that two hours stretched in front before any appointment claimed his attention. He wondered vaguely where he might go to, what he might do, in those two hours. In the last few minutes a distaste for solitude had risen in his mind, giving the close street a loneliness that had escaped him before.

As he stood wavering a cab passed slowly down the street. The sight of a well dressed man roused the cabman. Flicking his whip, he passed Chilcote close, feigning to pull up. The cab suggested civilization. Chilcote's mind veered suddenly, and he raised his hand. The vehicle stopped, and he climbed in.

"Where, sir?" The cabman peered down through the roof door. Chilcote raised his head. "Oh, anywhere near Pall Mall," he said. Then, as the horse started forward, he put up his hand and shook the trapdoor. "Wait!" he called. "I've changed my mind. Drive to Cadogan gardens, No. 32."

The distance to Cadogan Gardens was covered quickly. Chilcote had hardly realized that his destination was reached when the cab pulled up. Jumping out, he paid the fare and walked quickly to the hall door of No. 32.

"Is Lady Astrupp at home?" he asked sharply as the door swung back in answer to his knock.

The servant drew back deferentially. "Her ladyship has almost finished lunch, sir," he said.

For answer Chilcote stepped through the doorway and walked halfway across the hall.

"All right," he said. "But don't disturb her on my account. I'll wait in the white room till she has finished." And, without taking further notice of the servant, he began to mount the stairs.

In the room where he had chosen to wait a pleasant wood fire brightened the dull January afternoon and softened the thick white curtains, the gilt furniture and the venetian vases filled with white roses. Moving straight forward, Chilcote paused by the grate and stretched his hands to the blaze; then, with his usual instability, he turned and passed to a couch that stood a yard or two away.

On the couch, tucked away between a novel and a crystal gazing ball, was a white Persian kitten, fast asleep. Chilcote picked up the tail and held it between his eyes and the fire, then he laughed superciliously, tossed it back into its place and caught the kitten's tail. The little animal stirred, stretched itself and began to purr. At the same moment the door of the room opened.

Chilcote turned around. "I particularly said you were not to be disturbed," he began. "Have I merited displeasure?" He spoke fast, with the uneasy tone that so often underlain his words.

Lady Astrupp took his hand with a confiding gesture and smiled.

"Never displeasure," she said lingeringly, and again she smiled. The smile might have struck a close observer as faintly artificial. But what man in Chilcote's frame of mind has time to be observant where women are concerned? The manner of the smile was very sweet and almost caressing, and that sufficed.

"What have you been doing?" she asked after a moment. "I thought I was quite forgotten." She moved across to the couch, picked up the kitten and kissed it. "Isn't this sweet?" she added.

She looked very graceful as she turned, holding the little animal up. She was a woman of twenty-seven, but she looked a girl. The outline of her face was pure, the pale gold of her hair almost ethereal, and her tall, slight figure still suggested the suppleness, the possibility of future development, that belong to youth. She wore a lace colored gown that harmonized with the room and with the delicacy of her skin.

"Now sit down and rest or walk about the room. I shan't mind which." She nestled into the couch and picked up the crystal ball.

"What is the toy for?" Chilcote looked at her from the mantelpiece, against which he was resting. He had never defined, the precise attraction that Lillian Astrupp held for him. Her shallowness soothed him; her consequent egotism helped him to forget himself. She never asked him how he was, she never expected impossibilities. She let him come and go and act as he pleased, never demanding reasons. Like the kitten, she was charming and graceful and easily amused. It was possible that, also like the kitten, she could scratch and be spiteful on occasion, but that did not weigh with him. He sometimes expressed a vague envy of the late Lord Astrupp, but even had circumstances permitted it is doubtful whether he would have chosen to be his successor. Lillian as a friend was delightful, but Lillian as a wife would have been a different consideration.

"What is the toy for?" he asked again.

She looked up slowly. "How cruel of you, Jack! It is my very latest hobby."

It was part of her attraction that she was never without a craze. Each new one was as fleeting as the last, but to each she brought the same delightfully unreserved enthusiasm, the same picturesque devotion. Each was a pose, but she posed so sweetly that nobody lost patience.

"You mustn't laugh," she protested, letting the kitten slip to the ground. "I've had lessons at 5 guineas each from the most fascinating person—a professional—and I'm becoming quite an adept. Of course I haven't been much beyond the milky appearance yet, but the milky appearance is everything, you know. The rest will come. I am trying to persuade Blanche to let me have a pavilion at her party in March and gaze for all you dull political people." And she smiled.

Chilcote smiled as well. "How is it done?" he asked, momentarily amused. "Oh, the doing is quite delicious. You sit at a table with the ball in front of you. Then you take the subject's hands, spread them out on the table and stroke them very softly while you gaze into the crystal. That gets up the sympathy, you know." She looked up innocently. "Shall I show you?"

Chilcote moved a small table nearer to the couch and spread his hands upon it, palms downward. "Like this, eh?" he said. Then a ridiculousness seized him, and he moved away. "Some other day," he said quickly. "You can show me some other day. I'm not very fit this afternoon."

If Lillian felt any disappointment she showed none. "Poor old thing!" she said softly. "Try to lift here by me and we won't bother about anything." She made a place for him beside her, and as he dropped into it she took his hand and patted it sympathetically.

The touch was soothing, and he bore it patiently enough. After a moment she lifted the hand with a little exclamation of reproach.

"You degenerate person! You have ceased to manœuvre. What has become of your excellent training?"

Chilcote laughed. "Run to seed," he said lightly. Then his expression and tone changed. "When a man gets to my age," he added, "little social luxuries don't seem worth while. The social necessities are irksome enough. Personally I envy the beggar in the street—except from shaving, exempt from washing!"

Lillian raised her delicate eyebrows. The sentiment was beyond her perception.

Some Costs of Running a Hotel.

It is stated, on excellent authority, that the manager of the Waldorf-Astoria must receive in cash over $10,000 daily before he can look for a cent of profit.

During the first year of the existence of St. Regis, John Jacob Astor's Fifth avenue hotel, no less than $30,000 were spent for cut flowers alone. Even this huge sum is outdone by the florist bill of the Hotel Astor, which, by reason of its countless banquets, expends about $60,000 annually for these fragrant but fragile decorations.

At the St. Regis some of the expenditures for everyday articles of food tax the imagination and strain the credulity. For instance, the butter costs $57,000 a year—more than the salary of the president of the United States; the egg bill is $12,000; vegetables, $80,000; fruit, $42,000; poultry, $113,000; and meats, $200,000. It should be borne in mind that the St. Regis is not the largest of the modern hotels in New York, and hence its commissariat department is by no means the most notable from a financial standpoint.

George W. Boldt, manager of the Waldorf-Astoria, paid, in a single year, $150,000 to replace the broken china, crockery, etc. and it is stated that, on a friend commenting on the magnitude of this sum, he replied that he did not think that his employees were so very, very careless, after all.—Success.

WHY Should your baby suffer? When he is fretful and restless, don't experiment on him and use any old thing your neighbor recommends. Buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, a greatest known worm medicine and cure for all children's diseases. It is mild in its action, builds up the system, makes thin, puny babies fat. Mrs. J. C. Smith, Tampa, Fla., writes: "My baby was thin and sickly, could not retain its food and cried all night. I used one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and in a few days baby was laughing and well." Sold by all druggists.

A Thrifty Farmer.

The spirit of thrift popularly supposed to pervade New England is amusingly illustrated in the observation of a Connecticut farmer. The good man had been seriously ill in midsummer but by reason of his strong constitution he quickly rallied. On being asked in the autumn how he was feeling, he replied: "Pretty fair now, thanks; anyway, it don't make much difference, see in' that the farm's well fixed up. If I'd a died in hayin' or harvestin' time I calculate it'd been $50 damage to me." Then, after a pause, he added: "Come to think of it, that's too low a figure—$75 would be better!"

CARRIE NATION Certainly smashed a hole in the bar-rooms of Kansas, but Ballard's Horehound Syrup has swished all records as a cure for Coughs, Bronchitis, Influenza and all Pulmonary diseases. T. C. H., Horton, Kansas, writes: "I have never found a medicine that would cure a cough so quickly as Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it for years." Sold by all druggists.

ALL TO THEIR HUMOR. Everything in nature indulges in amusement. The lightning plays, the wind whistles, the thunder rolls, the snow flies, the waves leap and the fields smile. Even the buds shoot and the rivers run.—Exchange.

THE JOY Of living is to have good health. Use Herbine and you will have bushels of joy. You need not be blue, fretful and have that bad taste in your mouth. Try a bottle of Herbine, a positive cure for all liver complaints. E. Harrell, Austin, Tex., writes: "I have used Herbine for over a year and find it a fine regulator. I gladly recommend it as a fine medicine for Dyspepsia." Sold by all druggists.

William Smith of Arlington, Mass., is considered the oldest newspaper writer in the world. He is at present 98, and continues to employ his pen. He was the veteran among the newspaper men at the World's Press Parliament held in St. Louis in 1905.

ALL THE WORLD Is a stage, and Ballard's Snow Liniment plays a most prominent part. It has no superior for Rheumatism, stiff joints, cuts, sprains, and all pains. Buy it, try it and you will always use it. Anybody who has used Ballard's Snow Liniment is a proof of what it does. Buy a trial bottle, 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by all druggists.

PURSE SNATCHER GETS BUSY AGAIN

Operates on South Seventh Street Early at Night

Mrs. Rudolph Kittinger, of Seventh and Ohio Streets, Victim of Bold Thief.

TAKES PURSE AND HER RINGS.

Darting out from a dark alley in the rear of the Iverson & Wallace pharmacy, 633 Washington street, a negro roughly seized Mrs. Rudolph Kittinger, of Seventh and Ohio streets, snatching her purse and a pair of boy's leggings, and escaped. Mrs. Kittinger was accompanied by a maid and little child. The three rushed into the drug store but too late to raise a warning in time to catch the purse snatcher.

Mrs. Kittinger was going south on Seventh street, shortly after 8 o'clock, when the negro attacked her and then ran out Kentucky avenue.

The purse contained a valuable ring, 25 cents in money and a few postage stamps. Detectives have a description of the negro.

ARE IN A QUANDARY.

Witnesses Who Are to Give Evidence in Brownsville Cases.

San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 29.—Forty-five witnesses who are familiar with the Brownsville raid of eluded men of the negro regiment are in doubt as to what course to pursue. They have been summoned to appear before the senate investigating committee at Washington next Monday, and also before a general court-martial which is to convene at department headquarters, this city, on the same date. Practically all of the witnesses giving testimony before Milton D. Purdy have been summoned to appear before both boards of inquiry.

Sympathy of France.

Paris, Jan. 30.—A special plenary session of the French parliament, the municipal council of Paris have telegraphed to Emperor William expressing the sympathy of France in the Saarbrueck disaster, and recalling the generous assistance given by German miners at the time of the Courrier disaster.

NEED VINOL
it builds them up, makes them strong and robust

Rapid growth, overstudy, insufficient nourishment, convalescence after children's diseases, and run-down conditions makes children thin and delicate and stops development.

Because Vinol contains all the medicinal, bone, tissue and body-building elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cod's livers, the useless oil eliminated and peptonate of iron added, it quickly restores robust health and children love it.

We refund money to those who buy Vinol and receive no benefits. W. B. McPherson, Druggist.

NOTE—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Paducah it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

Almost everybody knows that if-ense should be paid in January; yet some people seem to forget it. This is intended as a friendly reminder FOR YOUR GOOD.

Ten per cent must be added to all license after February 1st. Naturally this is not a pleasant obligation to settle. It is also an unpleasant duty for the treasurer to collect it. Therefore endeavor to avoid it by your prompt attention.

Every business, occupation, agency and profession is liable for a license. Kindly call at the city treasurer's office at your earliest convenience that you may save this penalty, and greatly oblige.

Yours respectfully,
JOHN J. DORIAN,
City Treasurer.

MUST PAY TAX.

Adopted Daughter of Senator Sherman in Fifth Class.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The United States supreme court today denied the petition for a writ of review in the case of Mary Sherman McCallum, adopted daughter of the late Senator John Sherman against the collector of internal revenue for the District of Columbia, involving the rate of taxation assessed against a part of the sum inherited by her from the senator. Under the inheritance tax provision of the war revenue law of 1898, a tax was levied on $90,000 in cash thus received by Mrs. McCallum, which placed her in the fifth class of heirs, or "Those who are strangers to the blood," who were required to pay the highest tax. The tax was paid under protest, and Mrs. McCallum, who contended that under the terms of her adoption she bore the same relationship to Senator Sherman as his own daughter.

POLICEMAN ASLEEP; IS ROBBED.

Officer at Hammond, Ind., Is Then Beaten Nearly to Death.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 30.—While asleep in a West Hammond resort policeman John Kuleyk, of the village force, was set upon by thieves and robbed. His star and club were taken among other things. Kuleyk was patrolling the village while his brother officers were attending the annual ball of the police department.

When he discovered his loss he began firing his revolver at the inmates, and one was hit in the neck by a bullet but not seriously hurt. The officer was then pounded into insensibility. He is now in a critical condition at his home. No arrests have been made.

Pavrot, who shot and killed his old college friend, and family physician, Dr. R. H. Aldrich, November 7, because the latter had made a disparaging remark about the wife of the congressman, will go to trial for his life here in the next few days. He will plead the "unwritten law."

Bloomington, Ill., Jan. 30.—Mayor Erickson, who disappeared Saturday, returned today, having been to New York. He says: "I had an impulse to go some place, and I went."

RED MEN

TAKE WAR PATH UNTIL LAST FRIDAY'S SLEEP IN MARCH.

The Big Membership Contest Waxing Hot and Al Foreman Is Moved to Poetry.

Custer's last stand was not a more severe battle than is being waged between the divided tribe of Red Men for new members. "Householder's Howling Heroes" and "Buck's Bonnie Braves," are the official titles of the two sides, Messrs. C. B. Householder and W. E. Buck being the chiefs of the two divisions. The contest will close the last Friday's "sleep" in March, and at the first "sleep" in April an unequalled banquet will be served to the victorious side with the other side as the waiters and to foot the bills.

Mr. Householder chief of "Householder's Howling Heroes" has issued a card on which are four verses of inspiring poetry from the pen of one of his braves, Councilman Al Foreman. The poem calls the braves to battle in stirring sentiments and shows that Mr. Foreman can cause the same intense activity with his pen, that he could with a highly charged wire. The cards are mailed to every member of the Howling Heroes.

The poem follows:
To you dear Chief and brother
I issue this command,
Prepare your sharpest scalping knife,
There is trouble in this land.

With the pale face growing bolder,
In every walk and station;
The time has come, and we must act,
And scalp this pale face nation.

Half the Tribe is on my side,
All warriors brave and true,
I've chosen you, most noble guide,
We'll win this contest too.

And when the battle's over,
With our fifty scalps at least,
We will eat our corn and venison,
While the "Bucks" pay for the feast.

EIGHTY KILLED.

Terrible Result of Explosion in the Stuart Mine.

Charleston, W. Va., Jan. 30.—It is believed early this morning the number killed in the Stuart mine is at least eighty. There is no chance that any of those in the mine at the time of the explosion will be taken out alive for it is thought the terrific force of the explosion snuffed out their lives instantly. It will not be possible for rescuers to reach the bottom of the shaft within 48 hours. The disaster is perhaps the worst, in number killed, in the history of this state. Most of the men were Americans and many were married and had large families. There were a dozen or more colored men and fifteen or more aliens. Rescue work was commenced immediately, but foul air forced suspension for the time.

BOYS DROWNED WHILE SKATING

Two Break Through Ice at Evansville, Ind.—Bodies Recovered. Evansville, Ind., Jan. 30.—Milton Willette, aged 14, and Gip Hopkins, aged 16, while skating on thin ice near here today, were drowned. Their bodies were recovered. They were the sons of wealthy farmers.

"Hiram, what profession do you think our John ought to follow?" "I dunno," replied Farmer Kornkob. "John is rather handicapped. The only profession he thinks he is naturally adapted to is that of a capitalist, and I can't see where the money's comin' from."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

NO RELIEF

FUEL FAMINE SITUATION IN THE NORTHWEST.

Commerce Commission Urges Railroad and Receives Reply It Is Doing All It Can.

Washington, Jan. 30.—A telegram received by the interstate commerce commission from New Rockford, N. D., says the fuel situation there is so desperate that people will burn railroad property in less than 48 hours for fuel. The dispatch says:

"The railroad is not making any effort to relieve us. We have had no freight this year and no mail for 12 days."

The commission repeated the dispatch to President Elliott, of the Northern Pacific Railroad company, and asked him if something could not be done to relieve the situation.

The commission received today a message from Elliott declaring the company was exerting all of its energy to get relief to sections needing help, but that the snow and storms have been so great that trains have been stuck and snow plows damaged in trying to get through the heavy drifts.

"It is simply a question of whether man or the elements will prevail," says Elliott.

Trains Are Stalled.

Minneapolis, Jan. 30.—The snow blockade and fuel famine in the northwest continues and relief seems as remote as ever.

During the past 24 hours another snow storm has swept North Dakota and Minnesota.

From all points along the Soo, Great Northern and Northern Pacific railroads comes information about stalled trains and deserted engines and snow plows. Hundreds of cars of coal and groceries, all started westward during the past few days in the wake of rotaries may not now reach their destination for days or weeks.

BRET HARTE'S CHILD A PAUPER

Daughter Is Resident of Poorhouse at Portland, Me.

Portland, Me., Jan. 30.—Mrs. Jessie Steele, a daughter of Bret Harte, is an inmate of Portland's poorhouse. She was taken there four days ago and the city overseers are endeavoring to get into communication with her husband, Luther Luther Steele, to ascertain who is to be responsible for her maintenance. She is believed mentally unbalanced.

In a comfortable, steam-heated, sunny room Mrs. Steele practically all the time, writing on paper pads. She says she is writing a play and that she intends to earn money enough to go on the stage.

She says she thinks her husband is in the west, but doesn't know where. He had been contributing $15 per week toward her support, but was insufficient to meet her wants, and that he finally stopped. She recently advertised readings from her father's works, but her patronage was very limited.

Praying; Killed by Train.

Jackson, Mich., Jan. 30.—Kneeling on the track with her hands upraised in prayer, Miss Harriet S. Bartlett, 35 years of age, was killed this afternoon by a Michigan Central passenger train half a mile west of this city. Miss Bartlett's marriage had been postponed several times owing to her poor health and it is thought her troubles unbalanced her mind.

Fatal Accident in Extract Plant.

Slowly the river is falling here the gauge this morning registering a fall of .3 for the last 24 hours. The stage is 45.3. The wharftboat is well loaded with freight, much of which is being held for those packets that stopped on account of the high water.

Conditions for the resumption of operations by the Lee line probably will not be realized until next week. The Dick Fowler will not be able to get under the bridge safely at Cairo until the river there gets down to 48 feet. With the two Lee liners and the Dick Fowler back in their trades, business will be much better at the wharf.

Captain John Armstrong left Saturday for Pittsburg to purchase another towboat for the Holcomb-Hays Tie company. That will add another towboat to the local harbor and is one of a number added in the last few months.

The Henrietta left for the Tennessee river last night after a tow of ties. After unloading lumber all day yesterday at Joppa, the City of Memphis returned to the city this morning and will leave this evening at 6 o'clock for the Tennessee river.

The Joe Wheeler made a trip down to Joppa yesterday and got three car loads of freight. After coaling here this morning, the Wheeler left this afternoon for Chattanooga. It probably is the longest run any steamboat making Paducah has.

The H. W. Buttrick arrived this morning from Clarksville and left immediately for Nashville.

The Kit Carson finally got away for Memphis last night. The Joe Fowler came in yesterday from Evansville on time and left at noon for the same point.

Captain Young Taylor succeeded in getting the boats and barges cleared away from in front of the dry docks, this morning after much dilly-dallying on the part of obstructing boats, and the Lyda is in first class trim.

The Birmingham, which has been towing logs from the Hatchie river, left yesterday for the Tennessee river after a tow of ties.

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio at Evansville and Mt. Vernon will fall very rapidly during the next several days. At Paducah and Cairo will continue falling, the rate of fall becoming rapid by Friday.

The Tennessee from Florence to the mouth, will continue falling. The Mississippi from below St. Louis to Cairo, will fall rapidly.

The Wabash from Terre Haute to the mouth, will fall rapidly. Heavy floating ice will continue in the Mississippi river back of Cairo during the next several days.

The less real value and merit there is in a theory the longer the world will cling to it.

The county commissioners announced today that no statement of the shortage would be made until the examination has been completed, which will be in three or four days. It is understood that the county commissioners will take no steps to prosecute Walker in case his books show a shortage, as he is a cripple.
